NEW TAXI DRIVER

A passenger in a taxi leaned over to ask the driver a question and gently tapped him on the shoulder to get his attention.

The driver screamed, lost control of the cab, nearly hit a bus, drove up over the curb and stopped just inches from a large plate glass window.

For a few moments everything was silent in the cab.

Then, the still shaking driver said, "Are you OK? I'm so sorry, but you scared the daylights out of me."

The badly shaken passenger apologized to the driver and said he didn't realize that a mere tap on the shoulder would startle the driver so badly.

The driver replied, "No, no, I'm the one who is sorry, it's entirely my fault today is my very first day driving a cab.

I've been driving a hearse for 25 years.

NATIONAL NEWS

Dear Federal Workers and Annuitants:

On December 3rd, 11 of the 18 members of President Obama's Fiscal Commission voted "For" the final report which contained proposals to cut federal civilian and military retirement by $70 billion over 10 years, shift an increasing share of health premium costs to federal workers and retirees, freeze federal pay and reduce the federal workforce by 10 percent.

While not the supermajority of 14 votes that would have required Congress to immediately consider the report, many Commissioners promised that their spending cut and revenue provisions will inform the budget debate when it resumes in January 2011. That is to say, federal employee and retiree benefits will remain near, if not in, the bulls eye for deficit reduction proposals.

As a result, all federal employees and annuitants should continue to contact their own Representatives and Senators about the unfair cuts to federal retirement and health benefits and employee compensation proposed by the Fiscal Commission.

NARFE Deplores Assaults on Federal Family in Fiscal Commission Report

Basing federal civilian retirement annuities on an employee's highest five years of salary rather than the highest three years, as under current and longstanding law. According to the Congressional Budget Office, this plan would reduce a Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS) annuity by an average of $1,424 in 2010 and would reduce the average annuitant's retirement benefit by $7,148 over five years. A Federal Employees Retirement System (FERS) annuity would be cut by an average of $462 in 2010 and by $2,322 over five years.

- Requiring workers to contribute a much higher share of their salary toward their defined-benefit annuity. This would have the effect of a significant pay cut. The additional contribution would not result in any change in a retirement annuity. While employees currently make contributions from their salary to the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund, most medium and large private-sector employers historically have not required their workers to make any contributions toward their defined-benefit pensions.
- Deferring CSRS cost-of-living adjustments (COLAs) until age 62. Instead, CSRS annuitants would be offered a one-time, catch-up inflation adjustment at age 62 to increase the benefit to the amount that would have been payable had full COLAs been in effect.

Even more disturbing is the report's plan to require federal employees and annuitants to pay an increasingly higher share of Federal Employees Health Benefits Program (FEHBP) premiums by limiting growth of the government/employer share to the Gross Domestic Product (GDP) plus 1 percent. "Given that increases in FEHBP premiums are likely to outpace the percentage increase in the GDP plus 1 percent, workers and retirees would be forced to pay a higher percent of the premium each year to the point where many could no longer afford health insurance," said Beaudoin.

In addition, the co-chairs' proposal to use the so-called "Chained" Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers (C-CPI-U) to set COLAs for Social Security (and other indexed benefits) has been estimated by the Congressional Budget Office to lower Social Security benefits by 3 percent after a 10-year period and would likely result in a similar reduction to federal civilian and military retirement COLAs. Rather than adjust the COLA to reflect the disproportionately higher health care costs paid by older Americans, the co-chairs' proposal to use the C-CPI-U would further erode federal annuitant inflation protection.
